Recommendation letter

I worked with Lucas Lemos by two years in Gemalto Brazil, one factory of a French company that sells digital security. Lucas position was NPI (New Products Introduction) Trainee inside of Product Engineering team. He did a good job here, we wanted to hire him, it didn't happen due to his decision to go to France do interchange.

Lucas have a lot of good personal skill that is desirable as: easy going person, have a learning curve higher than average, smart, self-manager after training and have a good management in activities that request work under pressure.

His list of activities here in Brazil were, manage the raw material lifecycle, receive specification from customers and translate to factory language (codes, routes, etc) and support on projects regarding new materials (samples production, test and validation flow, documentation, etc).

We shared two years on Gemalto and I have enough knowledge of him to recommend he in any trainee position.
